

Delmege Commercial lays foundations for expansion

Commercial real estate company Delmege Commercial has entered a new era with the promotion of Robbie Delmege to managing director, and the launch of a fresh new corporate identity and logo.

Robbie has taken over the reins from his father, current CEO and founder Max Delmege, who developed the business from a small Northern Beaches residential real estate company in the 1960s, into a full service property company across commercial, industrial and residential property, construction and strata management.

Under Robbie's management strategy the Delmege team has recently doubled, establishing the infrastructure to support an aggressive expansion plan across the eastern seaboard.

Managing Director Robbie Delmege says: "The transformation of Delmege Commercial into a national top-tier corporate business is well underway, with recent staff appointments and acquisitions enabling us to deliver the full range of property services.

With NSW offices in North Sydney and Brookvale, a QLD office in Springwood, Brisbane and more offices in the pipeline, we're delivering our property expertise to an ever-expanding client base."
